Hurricane Katrina Deadline - midnight 8/25/10
Hurricane Wilma Deadline - midnight 10/24/10

We want to alert you to a battle that our Firm is currently waging to educate Florida's community associations about their rights to pursue unresolved Hurricane Katrina, Hurricane Wilma and other storm claims. There is a 5-year statute of limitations in Florida to pursue a property damage claim. The Statute of Limitations to pursue a claim for property damage resulting from Hurricane Katrina will expire midnight, August 25, 2010 and for Hurricane Wilma on October 24, 2010.*

Many associations are either bullied into believing they should not file a claim for storm losses for fear of having their rates raised or their coverage canceled or they are told that their claims did not meet their deductible. As a result, many associations are forced to specially assess their members to pay for necessary storm repairs and they do not pursue their insurance companies for everything they may have been owed. If you would like more information about your association's ability to re-open or file a claim for any storm damages sustained within the last four and a half years, or you would like to confirm that all possible storm-related damages have been addressed ensuring your property is structurally sound, please visit the special website we have created for this purpose at www.wilmaclaims.com.
